Long-term Project:

- As the cultural landscape is constantly changing and the Church is often an outsider in Generation Z's digital world, we want to be better prepared to understand this generation and reach them where they are. The intern will do research on Generation Z (current ages 2-19) and present findings to the Midweek Ministries Team, and what the research could mean for us as we minister to this generation. Since social media is such an important part of this generation's daily lives, the intern will also do some research and come up with a plan of how we can better reach our teens through social media and the internet.

Phase 1

- Do research on Generation Z. Who are they? What makes them tick? What are some unique challenges they face? What is the spiritual landscape of this generation?

Phase 2

- o Present information to the Midweek Ministries Team and lead a group discussion on how this information affects the Church as we are called to reach this generation.

Phase 3

- o Do research on current social media and internet trends popular with Gen Z. Come up with a robust plan for the 2019-2020 school year of how we can better use these tools to meet this generation where they are.

Youth Conferences

- The youth intern will attend both the High School and Middle School summer conferences, assisting pastors and small group leaders while on the trip with various tasks as needed.
